

1. Having caught sight of the troublesome shopkeeper, the thief, a man of evil character, secretly poured poison into the cups of everyone sitting at the table with his enemy.

main clause:

subject: _____ subj. gender: _____ verb: _____

verb tense: _____ direct object: _____

identify "having caught sight of" _____ modifies: _____

identify "shopkeeper" _____

identify "sitting" _____ modifies: _____

identify "secretly" _____

Vocabulary Help: caupō,, fūr, homō, sēcrētus, , fundō, pōculum, omnis, sedeō, mēnsa, suus, inimīcus

2. The shepherd, having been ordered by his terrified father to obey the orders of the soldier more swiftly, immediately threw down the gift which he had wanted to give to the Greek slave girl and ran into the forest.

main clause:

subject: _____ verbs: _____ and _____ verb tenses: _____

direct object: _____ identify "by his terrified father" _____

relative clause:

relative pronoun: _____ antecedent: _____ subject: _____

verb: _____ verb tense: _____ direct object: _____

Vocabulary Help: pastor, pater, perterritus, mīles, dēiciō, dōnum, ancilla, Graecus, dō, volō, silva, currō