

New Grammatical Concepts

Implied Subject – A separate word is not needed for the subject. The subject can be implied by the person of the verb ending. (he, she, it, they)

Alternative ways to form the perfect other than by adding a (v) - +u, s->x, d->ss, a->ē, e->ē, (the same perfect ending are used: (ī, istī, it, ērunt)

Answer the questions and translate the sentences.

1. Clemens caught sight of a ghost near the house.

subject: _____ singular ____ or plural ____
 person: _____ singular ____ or plural ____
 direct object: _____ singular ____ or plural ____
 verb: _____ tense: _____

Vocabulary Help: cōspicit, umbra, prope

2. The thieves frightened the freedman very much..

subject: _____ singular ____ or plural ____
 direct object: _____ singular ____ or plural ____
 verb: _____ tense: _____

Vocabulary Help: fūr, terret, libertus

3. The thief punched the centurion. He then walked quietly to the shop.

subject #1: _____ singular ____ or plural ____
 subject #2: _____ singular ____ or plural ____
 verb #1: _____ tense: _____
 verb #2 _____ tense: _____

Vocabulary Help: fūr, pulsat, tacitē, taberna